

Nitya is an Associate at Tribeca Venture Partners. Prior to joining Tribeca Venture Partners, she was an investment banking analyst at Lazard where she received the André Meyer Fellowship. In her role at Lazard, she worked on mergers and acquisitions as well as restructurings across numerous sectors within the Middle Market Group.

Her passion for entrepreneurship and investing began at Georgetown University where she was the Director of Operations at the Social Innovation Public Service (“SIPS”) Fund, a $1.5 million fund dedicated to fund students’ and alumni’s projects to improve the Georgetown community and the community at large.

Nitya graduated magna cum laude from Georgetown University with a B.A. in Classics and a minor in Economics.
